Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry during an engagement with Pulajanes at Tabon, P. I., July 24, 1906; especially in setting an example of coolness and bravery to the members of the Philippine constabulary with whom they had been surrounded by the Pulajanes. The two colored soldiers really aided in bringing the engagement to a successful conclusion. —The City (Galveston, Tex.) Times.

The Brownsville affair is proving to be a two-sided question. The senate is getting mixed up, democrats making speeches for a republican President, and Mr. B. R. Tillman is contending for justice for Negro soldiers.

What is going on along the line of speechmaking is enough to extend the earthquake from Kingston to Washington, D. C.

We will be glad when the end is reached and the question is finally settled.

Politics should have no place in dealing with great questions like that of the Negro soldiers now confronting the nation.

The Brownsville episode is, in our opinion, purely a question of constitutional rights.

Justice and fair play should be guaranteed to all citizens.

This is a question that, in our opinion, should be wisely investigated, and settled once for all.

There is, we believe, a limit to the Presidential prerogative. This is a good time to make known that limit since this is the first case of its kind in the history of the country.

This question should be settled without regard to the color of the soldier. The lawmakers should become blind to the nationality. —The (Savannah, Ga.) Independent.

At Birmingham, Ala., December 31, Dr. Booker T. Washington and Ben Tillman spoke on the same night—Washington addressing a great audience of whites and blacks at the Jefferson Theater the largest and finest auditorium in the city, and Tillman speaking at the court house to those of his own race who like the sort of stuff he dispenses. The club of colored citizens instrumental in having the "Wizard" come at that particular time is being highly praised for its shrewdness. Washington's speech practically offset any effect the mouthing of Tillman might have otherwise had upon the people. It was indeed a unique and gratifying incident, pleasing alike to the better element of both races. —Freeman.

FISSK NOTES.

Dr. Grant, traveling in behalf of the Old Folks' and Orphans' Home, of Birmingham, presented the needs of that institution to Fisk at prayer meeting, Wednesday evening, Jan. 16. A contribution of more than seven dollars was made by the students and faculty.

Friday night, Jan. 18, Prof. H. C. Morgan left for a three weeks' tour of the South. She will visit the various schools of the South, and the homes of Fisk graduates and former students.

On January 17, the College Seniors were excused from classes that those who desired might attend the inauguration of Gov. Patterson. Among those who took advantage of the opportunity to attend were H. F. Mitchell, H. R. Merry and B. W. Payne. As might have been expected, there were very few Negroes present, but it is the consensus of opinion of those who were there that the occasion was inspiring and uplifting.

Through the kindness of Dr. R. H. Boyd, B. W. Payne and G. T. Overstreet spent a very profitable afternoon one day last week visiting the National Baptist Publishing House. Dr. Boyd seemed delighted to show us through the various departments, and not only extended us a cordial invitation to return, but assured us that he would be glad to have any of the students visit him. The afternoon was one of inestimable value from an educational standpoint, and if ever you feel discouraged about the "Negro Problem," we advise you to visit Dr. Boyd and his Publishing House.

Miss Maud Clayton, of Savannah, Ga., was called home on account of the serious illness of her mother.

account of rheumatism. Crennot has never fully recovered from injuries received in the early part of the football season.

Thursday evening, Jan. 17, the Fisk Debating Club held its regular monthly meeting in the collegiate room of Livingston Hall. This was the most interesting meeting we have had this year. The subject for debate was one in which every Negro is interested: Resolved, That President Roosevelt was justified in dismissing the three companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry. The speakers on the affirmative were T. P. Haralson and W. G. Upshaw; on the negative, J. A. Green and Wm. Dawson. The speakers on both sides showed that they had given much care and thought to the subject, and to their manner of delivery as well. The decision of the judges was in favor of the negative. Music was rendered by the Fisk Quartette—Myers, Merrill, Boutte and A. King. There was an unusually large attendance, including several members of the faculty.

Mr. G. W. Haynes supplied Mr. J. C. Russell's pulpit at Goodlettsville Sunday.
